

Turning Ordinary Days into Extraordinary Adventures!

fly2help is an exciting charity that lifts peoples horizons via the medium of flight; working with individuals, groups and like-minded charities to stretch physical, mental and emotional boundaries that have been set by a life trauma or tragedy. Our core focus is disadvantaged youngsters for whom we aim to inspire imagination, determination, self-esteem and confidence.

fly2help is committed to supporting anyone who could benefit, typically supporting the terminally ill, chronically sick and bereaved. In addition, are those who simply need a life boost; including those who have suffered extreme neglect and abuse, and those who face exclusion from society on a regular basis as a result of mental ill-health, sickness, disability, injury or poverty.

Youngsters and their families/carers, are given an opportunity to visit fly2help at Kemble Airport, where amongst other activities they will enjoy the freedom and power of flight, whilst reaching for the skies over our beautiful Cotswold countryside. Each beneficiary would receive their own bespoke event day, organised to ensure our full attention to their needs with special VIP treatment all-round.

Central to the beliefs of fly2help is that offering an exhilarating flight and enabling someone to reach for the skies, gives them the chance to see the world from a whole new perspective, leaving their worries on the ground, both literally and metaphorically. For some, just being able to wake one morning with a sense of achievement or excitement, rather than disappointment, can be an enormous step towards recovery. Each day is recorded on camera, ensuring that the memory of a positive, life-enhancing experience can be cherished forever. These memories become all too precious, all too quickly, for those families affected by life-limiting illness.

As well as the family 'respite day' projects, fly2help's educational wing also works to encourage youngsters to reach their full potential through educational programmes run in partnership with schools or community groups. fly2help also works with other Kemble based organisations to provide Aviation Scholarships; fostering and mentoring those who have a thirst for an aerospace career.

Our belief in what we do is second to none!
